THE READERS ALWAYS WRITE

THE CAT FENCE

In answer to two of your readers' recent queries as to what to do, here is my experience which may help regarding "the cat fence," sent in by Mrs. Sigrid Fenton.

Mrs. Fenton must have discovered that a plain fence is merely a snare and delusion. Cats are experts at climbing. Ask the fire department how many calls it receives per annum to please retrieve "my little kitten" who has scaled walls, climbed the tallest trees in the country, and then sat there, afraid to come down.

The only answer is chicken wire, fine gauge, tacked to a play pen made of 2" x 2", and only high enough for the owner to get in. Stretch a ceiling of the same gauge wire across the top. This will mean a center support of another 2" x 2". Then 1/4" gauge wire will be strong enough to support any "callers," be they cats or dogs of medium size.

Next, the Siamese allergy inquiry. I had exactly the same pathetic instance occur to a beautiful Siamese male cat. He pulled the hair from out of his tail! We tried home remedies for it. Then we noticed that he acted a little "balmy." He attacked a broom standing upright in the kitchen. Next, he growled ferociously and pounced on a glittery evening bag which lay on the bed. He trembled and sought my comfort to allay his fears. I finally took him to a veterinarian in Great Neck, N. Y. (Dr. Goodman), a very fine diagnostician for cats. He said that the cat had a brain tumor. The autopsy proved the diagnosis to be correct. Mrs. F. V. North Clearwater, Fla.

EARLY TRAINING

I'm interested in Mrs. W. G. Coupland's letter (Kits and Babies, June '49). I have raised two sturdy boys. A doctor told me I raised our boys more scientifically than anyone he knew in our small city. Always there have been kittens and cats in our home. If there is anything to those old tales of cats smothering babies and carrying diseases, etc., my boys would have been easy victims. One thing to fear is a cat's claws coming in contact with a baby's eyes, but if you carefully train a child to kindness to these animals there is little danger of this. Children raised without a kitten to cuddle, have definitely lost a valuable experience. It teaches them to be kind and obedient to humans later in life. Our boys are real specimens of this early training. I am proud to say. There is no stronger devotion than that between our boys and their Siamese cat and Welsh terrier dog.

Mrs. Fred Chaney Coshocton, Ohio.

MALE TORTIE

I wonder if you would be interested in the fact that a tri-colored male cat is owned by Mrs. Gleis of Babylon, N.Y.? I believe that in this type of cat, the ratio of male to female is about one in one hundred thousand, and that while P. T. Barnum offered $1,000 for such an animal, none was found during his life time. Usually when a male tri-colored cat is born, it fails to survive. This one is eleven months old, and seems perfectly healthy, to date. They are supposed to be always sterile. So far no experiment to produce data on this point has been made with this cat. If any of your readers have further opinions on how unique this cat might be, both Mrs. Gleis and myself would be glad to hear from them.

National Cat Week Seals Ready August 22 Annual Meeting Scheduled for Detroit

SEAL DESIGN DRAWN BY GLADYS EMERSON COOK

Pictured on the frontispiece of this issue of Cats Magazine is the reproduction of the Official 1949 National Cat Week Seal. We know that you are as thrilled by it as we are presenting it to you.

The design of the Official 1949 National Cat Week Seal is by America's outstanding animal artist, Gladys Emerson Cook, and is one of the greatest cat designs it has been Cats Magazine's privilege to view.

The exquisite workmanship in the drawings by Miss Cook is well known to cat owners and cat lovers throughout the world. There is no one just quite like this great artist in capturing the delicate and truly feline lines of our friend, The Cat. Cat owners and cat lovers everywhere will hail this 1949 design for National Cat Week's Seals.

Gladys Emerson Cook has given to the cat lovers and the cat owners of America a really wonderful design to make National Cat Week better known and much more successful than ever before. It is now the responsibility of the cat lovers and cat owners of America to support National Cat Week and to see to it that the event is a rapidly grown project designed solely and exclusively for The Cat.

Your membership in 1949 National Cat Week entitles you to 100 of these lovely Seals drawn by Gladys Emerson Cook, and your membership will cost you only One Dollar. That is not too much of a premium to pay to have a Domestic Short Hair, a Persian and a Siamese accompany your letters through the mail.

You may obtain your National Cat Week Seals by writing today to National Cat Week, Inc., 1201 Center Street, Pittsburgh 21, Pa., and sending your dues of One Dollar. If you think your friends would like 100 of these Seals why not enroll them in this great cause, by sending their name and address with One Dollar for each.

Please remember that National Cat Week, as operated by National Cat Week, Inc., is a non-profit making activity, designed solely for the purpose of publicizing The Cat. If you like cats, you will want to do your part in helping the cause along—and besides—look what you will receive in return—100 Cat Week Seals, designed exclusively by America's outstanding animal artist, Gladys Emerson Cook.

DESIGNS SEAL

MISS GLADYS EMERSON COOK

Miss Lydia O. Cypher of Pittsburgh, Executive Secretary of National Cat Week, Inc., has announced that the 1949 Cat Seals will be mailed to all members on or about August 22, or as soon thereafter as the supply of Seals are obtained by her.

The Seals will be made up in sheets, each seal measuring approximately 1½" wide by 2" deep, and just the right size to place on the sealing flap of the envelope, or on the left side of the front, if you so choose.

Miss Lydia O. Cypher also announced that the annual meeting of National Cat Week, Inc., will be held at Detroit, Michigan on Saturday and Sunday, November 5-6 in the Hotel Tuller. The bid has been accepted to convene in Detroit during the two-day Michigan Cat Society's exhibition which will feature an All Breed, a Siamese Specialty and a Solid Color Specialty, which will herald the opening of National Cat Week. The bid was extended by Mr. H. B. Zieses, Secretary of the Michigan Cat Society and General Manager of the Exhibition, who is also a member of the Executive Board of National Cat Week.

The National Cat Week secretary also announced that arrangements with the Girl Scouts of America to take part in the November celebration are expected to be completed during September, in ample time to have this great organization throw its weight behind the project.

It was also announced that chairmanships for many States and areas, as well as cities are still available and that applicants are now being received. A complete listing of the chairmen will be published in the October issue of Cats Magazine enabling those who wish to take an active part in the campaign to make proper contact, or to fill vacancies that will no doubt exist at that time.

The Official 1949 National Cat Week Poem, written by Dr. Guy Bogart of Beaumont, California, has been received and will be published next month.

CAT DIES IN FLAMES SAVING LIVES OF 2

At Dysingers Corners, N. Y., a cat which burned to death in flames that destroyed its owners' home, was credited with saving two of the occupants from a similar fate.

Mrs. Carl Rollin said she was able to save herself and her 2-year-old son from the blazing house because the meowing of the cat awakened her from a sound sleep, the morning of July 13. A defective oil stove started the fire.

KITTENS — STUD SERVICE

Developments in scientific research are a constant source of wonder to the layman. This month, instead of the usual one-subject article, it might prove of interest to outline a few of the more recent discoveries and perhaps inject a note or two of personal observation.

FLUORESCENT LAMPS

A warning for all those using fluorescent lamps in catteries or homes! The inside coating of some fluorescent lamps is reported to contain beryllium, a toxic substance. Beryllium dust that gets into a skin cut or is inhaled into the lungs may result in a serious condition. Do, if you use fluorescent lamps, keep discarded tubes out of reach of pets and children. Burned out tubes should be placed in covered containers and never in open ones. Should a tube be broken in cattery or home, dampen the bits of glass to prevent powder circulation, sweep up, and place in a heavy paper wrapping. Never handle the broken fragments without covering the hands with gloves. Simple precautions, but worthy of attention by breeder or homemaker.

PENICILLIN

When penicillin was first introduced to the world, scientists, as well as the average person, were inclined to endow it with more healing power than it actually possessed. However, later experiments proved the fallacy of these early beliefs and the public settled down to await the arrival of penicillin in new forms created for a specific purpose. A few weeks ago I was fortunate enough to observe the use and efficacy of one new form and if it works out in all instances as it did in this, it should prove a boon to breeders. It all came about this way:

A young altered male, boarding for a few weeks, developed a swelling on the lower jaw the second day after arrival. The swelling looked very much like an abscess so he was taken to the veterinary for professional diagnosis and treatment. The swelling was, indeed, an abscess, but being too hard to lance, the cat was taken home and returned two days later when the swelling had developed a soft spot. This time the swelling was lanced, the opening thoroughly cleaned out and then an incision made into the abscess. Into this incision was inserted the new form of penicillin, looking much like a piece of frosted glass—dry and brittle and shaped like a lead pencil though about half the thickness. Penicillin in this form melts at body temperature. A gauze pad was placed over the opening and bandaged lightly in place (so as not to interfere with drainage). This first treatment was followed by a second two days later and the cat responded beautifully. He was completely well in no time at all, and during what might have been an unpleasant and painful period, played as usual and didn't miss a meal. Though penicillin may not be a cure-all, it is very good for what it is good FOR, and undoubtedly this new form will soon be as well known as are the liquid and ointment.

GLYCERITE OF HYDROGEN PEROXIDE

Reversing the usual procedure, a medication first developed for human use, and considered a new "miracle drug," has been adapted for veterinary use. The medication, made up in the main of hydrogen peroxide, and called glycerite of hydrogen peroxide, is claimed to reduce the healing time of infections including gangrene, burns and cuts by 50%! The effectiveness of this new treatment is attributed to the fact the hydrogen peroxide is stabilized so its healing properties remain intact after application. This medication has already been used on 2500 small animals at the Emmerson Animal Hospital, Quincy, Mass., under the direction of Dr. James Emmerson, resulting in the recovery of 92% of seriously ill. This medication, which no doubt we'll be hearing more about, was developed by Dr. Ethan Allen Brown of the Allergy Clinic of Boston Dispensary, and bids far to carve a

HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN CAT FANCY

PART 7 — FIRST AMERICAN CAT SHOWS

BY CHARLES A. KENNY

(Copyright 1949, by Charles A. Kenny. Must not be reprinted or quoted without written permission.)

May 6, 1895 marks the official founding date of the American Cat Fancy because on that date the first cat show, commanding national attention, was held in Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Everything relative to the Cat Fancy in America gyrates from that historical feline episode.

This first show was the result of an idea conceived by Mr. James T. Hyde, an English subject, who was prominently identified during the era with the staging of New York's brilliant horse shows. When Hyde returned to his native England for a visit, he attended the annual cat show at the famous Crystal Palace in London. He was amazed by what he saw. It was then that he decided that such an event could be a tremendous success in America. He was thrilled by the unusual large attendance at the Palace, the gaily bedecked cages, the lovely and varied assortments of represented breeds and colors of cats, and the overall interest displayed by cat owner and visitor alike.

Carefully, he noted the operation of the show, sought out the officials for additional information for handling such an event, and resolved, when he returned to America, to stage such an exhibition in New York's fabulous Madison Square Garden.

Hyde lost little time launching his cat show idea. First, he completed arrangements for the use of the Garden, and then set out to enroll entries throughout the United States and England as well.

Fortunately he enlisted the aid of Dr. Rush Shippen Huidekoper, who had published a book titled, The Cat. This book had recently been released and was "a guide to the classification and varieties of cats, and a short treatise upon their care, diseases and treatment." The tome made Dr. Huidekoper the best known and informed cat authority in America.

Dr. Huidekoper first became interested in cats while a medical student in Paris, Edinburgh and London. He attended several of the Crystal Palace shows in London during his academic sojourn in England and eagerly sought the company of the breeders and exhibitors of fine cats of that day. He agreed to be the chief judge of the Madison Square show. Two of his friends, a Miss Hurlburt and Mr. T. Farrer Rackman of East Orange, N. J., also recognized feline authorities, assisted Dr. Huidekoper as officials.

The show proved to be a huge success and attracted many entries and several thousand visitors from all sections of the East, despite the fact that New York City on that May 8th date sweltered in a 96-degree temperature. Naturally, the cats suffered from intense heat and their caged "ordeal" and as a result, several of the specimens died. Eight entries were received from England for the competition, but sources fail to reveal if any of these English cats perished.

This first New York show attracted one hundred and seventy-six cats representing one hundred and twenty-five owners.

Exactly how Dr. Huidekoper and his assistants officiated at the show is not known, but it is assumed that the same standard of rules and regulations that governed at Crystal Palace were employed at Madison Square Garden.

Best Cat in the show was a Brown Tabby Neuter named Cosie. It was a Maine cat owned by Mrs. E. N. Barker, who later became an outstanding international personality of the Cat Fancy as a breeder of Brown Tabbies, a judge, promoter of early cat exhibitions, and a writer of articles for cat magazines.

Although the Madison Square Garden show is regarded as the first formal event of its kind in America, research proves that it was by no means the first cat show. It is recorded that such events were held in the early Seventies, mostly in Maine, and were staged by seafaring men and those who built the ships. It is also known that prior to 1884 cat shows were held in Boston, New York and Philadelphia, but the dates and the results have been dissolved by time.

One of the best known "show cats" of the period prior to 1895 was a Silver Tabby male named Richelieu, owned by a Mr. Robinson of Bangor, Maine. Richelieu, presumably a Maine cat, traveled with his master and was generally considered to be the "cat to beat" at these early events.

Richelieu was "very lightly marked," weighed 20 pounds, and was "about 7 years old" in 1884.

Exactly how a judge determined the Best Cat in these first shows must be left to the imagination of the reader. It could be perhaps by any number of qualifying points, from weight to thickness of coat, and from color to length of tail.

Three other Maine cats competed in the shows against Richelieu. There were Dot and Baba, Blue-eye Whites, both males despite their feminine-sounding names, owned by Mrs. E. R. Pierce of Maine; and Leo, a Brown Tabby, owned by Mrs. Persis Bodwell Martin of Augusta, Maine.

Two other cat shows were held in America during 1895, following the Madison Square Garden event. One at Plainfield, N. J., of which no additional information has been procured; and the other at Newburgh, N. Y., presumably held in the Fall of the year at a county fair. Best Cat at Newburgh was the famous Brown Tabby male, King Humbert, owned by Mrs. Barker. King Humbert was an import from England, born in April 1894.

All indications point to Brown Tabbies as the outstanding show cats at the beginning of the American Cat Fancy, brought about, no doubt, by the fact that the class boasted Best Cat in these first shows.

In 1896, six cat shows were held in America as far as existing records reveal. Madison Square Garden held its second annual event, followed by exhibitions again in Plainfield and Newburgh. Springfield, Mass. had one show on January 1, 1896, and repeated again on October 21. Toronto, Canada held the first cat show in the Dominion the same year. With the exception of the Springfield dates, no other information has been found about these shows except that King Humbert was again Best Cat at Newburgh.

At the second New York show, eighty-two owners exhibited one hundred and thirty-two cats.

WILSON'S WORM CAPS FIRST INTRODUCED IN U. S. IN 1906

One of the oldest products manufactured for the good health of cats and kittens (as well as dogs) are Wilson's Worm Capsules.

Wilson's Worm Capsules were originally introduced to the cat (and dog) owners of America by the late Gertrude E. Taylor as early as April 1906, when upon discovering the effectiveness of them she arranged to act as a distributor of this English prepared product throughout the United States. In 1912, she purchased the franchise and patented the formula in 1926.

When Mrs. Myrtle K. Shipe, 5544 Ivanhoe Avenue, Detroit 4, Michigan, purchased the Taylor cat and dog mail order supply establishment last year, she assumed exclusive rights for the manufacture of Wilson Worm Capsules. The product is the outstanding sales item of her entire line of exclusive pet products.

The Wilson Worm Capsules are covered with a soluble gelatine, which is generally considered to be the best form for administering such a remedy. Nauseous medicines given animals in any other form are apt to be vomited, especially at a time when the stomach is not in suitable condition to receive them. This is invariably the case when an animal has worms. No griping is caused during the action of the Wilson Worm Capsule, and no foul affects follow their use in the event that the animal is free from worms. The preparation is such that if given occasionally, the Wilson Worm Capsules have a very excellent tonic effect.

Unlike many products, no change has ever been made in the formula of Wilson Worm Capsules since their original discovery. The Capsules are manufactured in four strengths. No. 1 is used for kittens and puppies; No. 2 for adult cats and toy dogs; and Nos. 3 and 4 for larger dogs depending upon their age and weight.

Wilson Worm Capsules were advertised by the late Mrs. Taylor in "Cats" Magazine and the publishers of this publication have never received a single complaint from its readers.

Wilson Worm Capsules have been awarded the Cats Magazine Seal of Approval as an ideal and effective remedy for the use in cats and kittens. The product was one of the first to show the Seal in its literature and on its cartons.

Other products of the late Gertrude E. Taylor, including the Salina remedies will soon receive the Seal. Wilson's Worm Capsules as well as the Salina remedies are sold by Mrs. Shipe throughout the United States and Canada.

Announcement is made of the Rose City Cat Club show dates to be held at Portland, Ore., in the Portland Public Auditorium, Nov. 26-27.

NASHVILLE HAS CLUB; SHOW FOR CAT WEEK

The Middle Tennessee Cat Club has been organized at Nashville, Tenn., with Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, president; Mrs. H. L. Woodward, vice president; Mrs. John Paul Jones, secretary; and Mrs. F. Norton Leahy, treasurer. The board of directors include Mrs. E. A. Otto, Miss Eva Jean Wrather, 4700 Elkins Ave., and Mr. J. Jeff Hooberry.

Objects as stated in the constitution and by-laws are: (1) To help cultivate a love and understanding of cats, encourage a greater interest in cats as pets and companions, and foster a true spirit of humanity towards cats. (2) To disseminate information and knowledge concerning the history, pedigree, breeding, ailments, rearing, training, treatment and usefulness of cats. (3) To hold shows and encourage the breeding to standard of both long-haired and short-haired cats. (4) To cultivate the sentiments of friendship and common interest among the members—breeders, exhibitors, and cat lovers in general.

Plans are underway for a Cat Show to be held on November 6 in the Hermitage Hotel at Nashville, officially to launch National Cat Week. The exhibition will be an informal one with no cats barred because of lack of pedigree.

Genesee Cat Fanciers Club has cancelled plans for an exhibition, Nov. 12-13.

SKIN ITCH: Don't be too quick to blame fleas, mange, diet, if pets itch—scratch continually. 2 to 1 it's "FUNGITCH," fungus infection discovered by noted veterinarian, Dr. A. C. Merrick. Much like athlete's foot, it itches painfully—soon develops dandruff-like scales or mouldy-smelling brownish-edged sores around tail, on paws, back or underbody. Dr. Merrick's SULFODENE applied externally stops the itching in minutes—clears up scales and sores in a few days. Generous treatment $1.00 in stores or order direct—address below

EAR CANKER: If pet repeatedly rubs ear on floor, etc., shakes head or holds it in a stiff, unnatural way, examine ears carefully. If hot—sensitive—musty-smelling, you know it's ear canker (otitis). Apply Dr. Merrick's EAR CANKER Creme at once. Simply squeeze Creme from handy metal tube into the affected ear. Creme contains wonder-drug Tyrothricin. Works swiftly to relieve pain, remove causes and promote healing of ear canker. Don't let your pet suffer another day. The Falling Cat Turns Over . . . by IDA M. MELLEN

(AIDED BY TAIL? OR BY THE EAR CANALS?)

"When . . . a falling cat twists so that it lands on its feet, its tail is its greatest aid in maintaining balance," says Edwin Way Teale, noted entomologist, in his latest book, Days Without Time (page 144).

"The ability to turn appears to depend upon the semicircular canals of the ear, and these evidently are present also in the deaf cat . . . both deaf and hearing blue-eyed white cats make the turn perfectly and land on all four feet when released back down at a distance of twelve to eighteen inches from the ground," says the present writer in The Science and the Mystery of the Cat (page 70).

Which of these statements is correct?

It was already common knowledge that long-tailed cats, even wild ones, such as ocelots, make the turn perfectly, and so, when asked to elucidate the subject further and answer this question, my first move was to have the experiment made with bob-tail cats and tailless Manx. This seemed the only way to answer the question, and the interesting data are now in hand.

Mrs. W. F. Wilkenhauer of Berkeley,

California, a great lover of wild felines who has kept an African lioness cub and a cougar cub, now owns a pair of lynxes (bobcats) which have the run of the house. She has found her wild pets "amazingly brilliant" and also that the paws of wild felines are extremely sensitive and they dislike to have them touched. She dared not make the experiment at all with her male bobcat, who "stands for no nonsense," but the female was easy to handle. Her paws were not held but she was supported under the back until let fall, when she made a perfect landing in spite of her abbreviated tail, but with a most surprised expression on her face "as though wondering what on earth was the matter with us!"

At the same time I appealed to several Manx cat owners, four of whom made the experiment.

Miss Winifred Porter of New Orleans says: "Sixteen Manx, ages eight weeks to eleven years—all landed square on four feet regardless of height, though they looked at me as though asking if I were crazy. Mrs. Tebbetts (Windibank Cattery) who has recently moved to New Orleans assisted me and we became so interested and enthused we tried all the cats, Siamese, Burmese, Abyssinian and Persian, and there was no difference—seventy cats in all."

Mrs. Loring Whitman of Chappaqua, New York, reports: "I am happy to inform you that your request that I turn my Manx cat upside down and drop it has been followed to the letter. The distance as you prescribed was two feet, the landing field also as you prescribed, 'soft, deep cushions.' This experiment was conducted not once but several times, as I considered it great fun. The cat in question was very much insulted, but landed on her feet every time. I then extended the experiment to her present litter of six-week-old kittens, of which one is tailless and two have tails of normal length. The kits were less agile than their mother and occasionally landed on their sides, but the tailless one was, if anything, rather better in his percentage of falls on feet. I don't know when I have received a request which gave me more pure pleasure."

Mrs. M. Cordrey of Elida, Ohio, made the experiment with two female Manx cats, one of which made a perfect landing on her feet. "Another female I made the test on has had some ear

HISTORY OF CAT FANCY

Oddly enough, America did not have a single cat club until just after the second New York exhibit when, with the assistance of the officials of Madison Square Garden, the American Cat Club was organized with the object of staging a Grand National Cat Show annually, and patterned after the National Cat Club of England, which sponsored the exhibitions at the Crystal Palace.

Dr. Rush S. Huidekoper of New York was the president of the American Cat Club, with W. D. Mann of New York, a magazine editor, and Mrs. E. N. Barker of Newburgh, N. Y., vice-presidents; and James T. Hyde, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee comprised T. Farrar Rackham of East Orange, N. J., Miss Edith Newbold of Southampton, L. I., N. Y., Mrs. Harriet C. Clarke, of New York, Charles R. Pratt of New York and Joseph W. Stray of Brooklyn.

It may be well to mention that the Crystal Palace shows began in 1871 with Harrison Weir producing the initial event. However, it was not until 1887 that the National Cat Club was organized, with Weir as its first president.

The underlying factors for founding the American Cat Club were similar to those of the National Cat Club of England namely, (1) to promote honesty in the breeding of cats, so as to ensure purity in each breed or variety; (2) to determine the classification required, and to encourage the adoption of such classification by breeders, exhibitors, judges, and the committees of cat shows; (3) to maintain and keep a stud book; (4) to assist in the showing and breeding of cats by holding exhibitions under a set of governing rules and regulations, including best sanitary conditions; and (5) to determine a basis upon which to award championships and other prizes.

But the American Cat Club collapsed within a year, and as a result the annual New York City shows were suspended for seven years.

In 1897, Chicago staged a cat show that was managed by Mrs. Leland Norton and proved a tremendous success. Interest zoomed in the Midwest from this show and later the same year St. Louis held a show, although no detailed information is available. In January 1899, the Chicago Cat Club was organized and staged the first American exhibition under organization sponsorship. Mrs. Norton was the president of this club. Almost at the same time, Mrs. Clinton Locke of Chicago organized the Beresford Cat Club, which became a success immediately, dwarfed the original Chicago Cat Club into absorption a year later, and launched a national register or stud book, that was published before the end of the year. What the Madison Square Garden officials had hoped for in New York was an established fact and a growing success in Chicago.

The first Beresford Cat Club show awarded one hundred and seventy-eight prizes. The club had a roster of one hundred and seventy members.

Milwaukee staged a cat show tied up with an all-pet exhibition in 1898, and Boston and Hartford, Connecticut held events the same year. Danbury, Connecticut was added the following year.

The West held its first cat show at Los Angeles and at Fresno, California in 1901, while the South witnessed its first exhibition the same year at Memphis.

First cat club in the South was the Louisville, (Ky.) Cat Club founded in 1900. The first western cat club was organized in 1900, and is active today.

It is the Pacific Cat Club of San Francisco, Calif.

The first successful club in the East, also active today, is The Atlantic Cat Club of New York, founded in 1902.

THE CRAP GAME—That's the title of this photo submitted by Mrs. A. E. Albera of Denver, Colorado, showing two of her Siamese kittens, born May 17th, making a few "passes" with the dice. It doesn't take them long to catch on, does it? We'll bet that when somebody comes along, they'll "fade" or head for the "box cars." Anyhow, come on you gallopin' dominoes, kitty needs a new supply of catnip!

Fanciers Await 1949 All-America Rankings

The die is cast for thirty-three cats which will make up the 1949 All American honor roll of great cats. The announcement of the lineup is being eagerly awaited by Cat Fanciers throughout the United States. Official notices to the winning AA cat owners have already been mailed, with the result that a glittering parade of the finest cats of 1949—The All-American Cats—is scheduled in these pages next month.

This is the greatest array of feline talent ever assembled in the three years that the rankings have been made. Every 1949 All-American cat has rightfully earned his title more so this year than ever before, because to be eligible for a Sectional ranking a cat must have garnered at least 25 points, and to make the All-American "team," a cat is now required to have at least a total of 50 points.

Competition between the Long Hair Blue and the popular Siamese has been terrific during the past Show Season. This competition has been provided by the many cats that make up these classes. Consequently, it is expected that the greatest interest will be shown in the Blues and the Siamese, with the Silvers, Whites and Blacks following very close behind.

Interest has been added to the Solid Reds and Tortoiseshell classes because of the special prize trophies to be awarded by the Solid Red and Tortoiseshell Society for the first time. It is hoped that in the future, specialty clubs will follow the lead of the Society to honor the owner and the Cat which has the fine fortune of being selected an All-American.

As in the past, those interested in the All-American rankings should study carefully the lineups of each section and attempt to select his or her prize list. Then when the formal list appears, compare your choices with the winners.

Much interest is centered on the Cat of the Year for 1949. Heretofore, Blue males were the winners with Siamese taking Best Opposite Sex. In 1947, Wimauma Masterpiece of Chalus, owned by Charles Victor of North Hollywood, captured the title, with Lantara Gene, a Blue Point female owned by Mrs. R. H. Hecht of Normandy, Mo., getting the mathematical "nod" for Best Opposite Cat of the Year.

Last year, Pearl Harbour Yank, owned by Mrs. John H. Revington, copped the Cat of the Year title, and once again, Mrs. Hecht was the winning owner of the Best Opposite Sex with her Vee Roi's Katisha, a Seal Point.

This year, strong candidates have been nominated for the biggest cat title of the year. Oddly enough the top scoring cat of each section is a female, which means quite definitely that the 1949 Cat of the Year will be a female. This is the first time in the three years that such a situation exists. The nominees are Vee Roi's Dream Girl, Seal Point Siamese, owned by Mrs. Hecht, representing the Midwest; Dixi-Land's Felice of Normont, a Blue, owned by Mrs. Merald E. Hoag, representing the South; Doneraile Drusilla, a Seal Point, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sven Nelson of Braintree, Mass., representing the East; and Lanita, a Seal Point, owned by Mrs. June Williams of Temple City, Calif., representing the West.

Could it be that for the first time a Siamese will capture the title of Cat of the Year? Three of the four sections have Siamese leaders.

Keen is the interest this year for 1949 Best Opposite Sex Cat of the Year, which very definitely will be one of these four great male competitors:

Michael of Beverly-Serrano, a Silver, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Bumbury of Los Angeles, and representing the West; Longhill's Lightning, a Cream, owned by Mr. Anthony DeSantis of Oakland, New Jersey, and representing the East; Dixi-Land's White Historian, an Orange-eye White, owned by Mrs. John H. Revington of Bristol, Tennessee, and representing the South; and finally, Jubilee of Blulace of West Alice, a Blue, owned by Mrs.

American Cat Association Adopts Standard For Russian Blue Cats

At the annual meeting of the American Cat Association at Chicago, March 31, the Russian Blue Cat standard of the Governing Council of the Cat Fancy (England) was recognized. This is the result of recent imports of this breed.

Until this year, the breed has been included in the domestic short hair and/or household classes. In recent years only one such representative of the breed has competed in exhibitions. This is owned by a Canadian, but the pedigree of the cat is unknown.

Several pedigreed cats were imported by a fancier in Texas last Fall. These from the Dunloe strain. However, none of these Russians has been exhibited.

niche for itself along with penicillin and the sulfas.

ATOMIC RAYS

The explosion of the atomic bombs on Bikini resulted in the slaughter of countless animals and fish, not so much from the bomb itself, or the heat that emanated, but from the clouds of radio-active material spread by the wind to the waters of the lagoon and the ships anchored there. Though some of the deadly substances were produced by the bomb, most of them were the result of the passage of rays from the explosion through ordinary materials. Intense radiation can transform such ordinary chemicals as salt and iron so that their own atoms become radio-active. These radio-active materials are called isotopes. Chemically, they remain the same, salt is still salt, and iron still iron, but their isotopes give off rays deadly in large quantities but harmless in microscopic amounts, and even beneficial in medical therapy.

The action of isotopes is really remarkable. A small dose of radioactive salt introduced into the bloodstream acts as a spy, making it possible to follow the flow of blood through the body and detect areas of poor circulation. Through the use of isotopes one may watch the sulfas do their work. Isotope spys of calcium and phosphorus will reveal whether calcium or phosphorus goes directly to the bones, if so, which bones, and what proportion goes to the teeth. There are endless possibilities to intrigue the layman as well as the scientific mind, and though it is anyone's guess just how valuable atomic rays will prove in the animal field, it is reasonable to suppose that anything that helps humanity will ultimately help the animal world.

With research constantly bringing to light new discoveries, it would seem there is great hope for the welfare of future generations.

The Standard as adopted by the A. C. A. follows:

The Russian Blue Cat differs essentially from the ordinary British Short Hair, being lithe and long and snaky, fine in bone, with a decidedly longish face and narrowish skull, while the ears are rather large and pointed. The primary feature, and one which distinguishes it from all other cats, blue or otherwise, is the coat, which is short, close and lustrous and of a sealskin-like texture. The Russian Blue is also longer in the leg than the British Cat.

Color—Bright blue, even throughout and free from tabby markings or shadings; medium to dark shade of blue, and no white permissible.

Coat—Very short, close and lustrous and of a sealskin-like texture.

Body—(Build and Tail)—Body long, lithe, graceful in outline, and carriage, with tail fairly long and tapering. The legs are decidedly longish and the feet are small, neat and well rounded.

Head and Neck—The skull is flat and narrow, the forehead receding, giving a wedge-shaped effect. The face and neck are long, giving with the long lithe body, the desired snaky appearance.

Eyes—Set rather widely apart, and color should be as vividly green as possible.

A kitten, 6 months of age was brought to the hospital with a history of having swallowed a needle and persistent vomiting. A radiograph located the needle lodged in the esophagus. An operation was performed. The needle was removed by gentle extraction bringing the needle into the stomach.

POLIO

A NEW Disease in Cats?

by L. H. FAIRCHILD, M.D.

Two years ago in Oakland, California I met a fine Veterinarian who specialized in the care of small animals. He told me of a new infection that was occurring in cats. He called it "Chorio-encephalitis." This, he explained, was a deadly disease which responded to no known form of treatment. I told him I had never seen or heard of such a case and although I was interested, but hoped like many others, that such a condition might never affect my own cats.

About a year ago, we had visitors from the Northern part of the State. They told us (after having been shown through the Cattery) that they had been near some sick cats. Soon after, a litter of six-week-old Siamese kittens showed signs of sickness.

At first we noticed only weakness in a leg; then soon after, a peculiar trembling enveloped the kitten's body, particularly the legs. When we picked him up he would cry out as though in pain. There was no fever, and the appetite continued good.

This condition grew rapidly and progressively worse so that there was finally convulsive seizures and loud screaming cries. Within 24 hours the kitten was dead!

One after another of these kittens developed this condition. After a few days we were able to detect the very earliest stage of the disease, and took a kitten showing early symptoms to our Veterinarian in San Diego. He examined the kitten while we told him the history of the case. He said he had never seen such a thing; that he could not believe that this kitten could be so seriously ill. She purred and "rubbed whiskers" on his hand and walked all over his table, looking almost perfectly normal except for a slight limp. I predicted at that time that the kitten would be dead within 24 hours. It was left at the Hospital for observation. The next morning she was found dead in the cage!

We lost seven Siamese kittens from this condition. It was the entire "crop" of that season. They all continued to eat right up to the time they died. For some strange reason, four Abyssinian kittens which were of the same age and in the same room did not contract this disease. Neither did any of the nursing mothers, nor any of our other, older cats. Our Veterinarian recently told us that he saw two similar cases last year, but has seen none, so far, this year. He says there is no known treatment for it. We have heard of scattered cases in other parts of the country from San Francisco to New York where a pathologist who lost some kittens diagnosed the disease as "Polio in Cats."

A letter from a cat breeder in Texas is interesting in the light of this situation: She writes, "I had a beautiful Blue Point Siamese male die this week from something that the Veterinarians here claim to know nothing about. In another part of town, miles away from our place, several cats died from the same thing. The cats refuse to eat, go into a very high fever and shake or twitch all over. Something like Chorea in dogs. My cat had Gastro-enteritis last summer. I got him over that but he never seemed right to me afterward, although the Veterinarians always assured me he was all right. Dr. ——— here, seems to think my cat and the others might have had a form of Polio, but he says he has never heard of it in cats. I kept my cat alive a week after he was stricken, mainly, I believe, by forcing a milk and egg concoction down his throat. The Veterinarian gave him penicillin shots; also B-1 shots. We also gave him ¼ aspirin tablet frequently during the day.

"I have many cats and afraid that if this disease is contagious, I shall lose them. I have used disinfectant all over this farm, but even so, not knowing what we are coping with, I fear for the rest. Doctor, if you have any ideas and will be so very kind as to help us, you will do much to help our cat population, because nobody here seems to know what it is. I believe I have given you the symptoms correctly, except that most of the cats die in three days. It occurs in the ones that have been vaccinated for Enteritis as well as the survivors of it. They are extremely nervous and have final paralysis. This last comes from the Veterinarian when I told him I was writing you about our cats. He is a good doctor with small animals, but he admits he has never seen this before."

The following conclusion may be made from this study:

1. This is a rapidly fatal contagious disease of Cats.
2. Kittens seem to be more susceptible than grown cats.
3. The disease affects the brain and spinal cord and is apparently virus in origin.
4. The disease is not affected by penicillin or sulfonamides.
5. There seems to be variation in the susceptibility of certain breeds of cats.
6. The virus may possibly be transmitted by human carriers who have been around such sick cats.
7. A study is being made by one of the biological supply laboratories on an anti-serum for this disease. When and if this serum is perfected I shall certainly send the information to "Cats Magazine."

SPANISH CAT ARRIVES READY FOR A JUG AND A FEW SLUGS

Kiki, an 18-month-old household male pet cat arrived in the United States in July accompanied by his owner, Mrs. Winifred Hunter, assistant attache at the United States Embassy in Madrid, Spain.

The tom is unusual in that it boxes and drinks cocktails.

Mrs. Hunter said she had trained Kiki to box and had bought him a pair of miniature boxing gloves. As for keeping in fighting trim, Kiki doesn't care whether he orders a Martini or Manhattan in English or Spanish—he understands both languages. Once, Mrs. Hunter added, Kiki had one too many. Out the window went the nimble footwork of a trained boxer and all that remained was one pretty sick kitty, Mrs. Hunter said.

SILVER FANCIERS

Thirty members were present at the meeting for the election of officers of The Silver Fanciers of Los Angeles, with Mrs. Roy Harvey Smith, Hollywood, named president; Mr. Leonard Weirich, La Mesa, first vice president; Mrs. Harold E. Webb, Glendale, treasurer; and Mr. B. E. Dodson, 1427 E. Windsor Rd., Glendale, secretary.

Reading of "The History of the American Cat Fancy" as published in serial form in Cats Magazine will continue to be a part of the program at each group meeting of the organization, Mrs. Smith has announced. Plans for the 1949-50 show is now underway.

Thirty-One Cats Win 1949 All-Western Titles

Thirty-one cats owned by twenty-five exhibitors are recipients of 1949 All-Western cat awards in this the third annual listing. With the exception of Mrs. C. F. Rotter of Minneapolis, Minn., all owners reside in California. Mrs. Rotter purchased her All-Western winner, a long hair male Black from a California exhibitor, Mrs. Fred Wildenhuis, following the close of the West Coast show season.

The 1949 array of All-Westerns is thirteen less than last year. This is due to the fact that at least 25 points must be accumulated by a winning cat in the All-American mathematical system employed. Heretofore, the cat of each breed, color and sex classification in each of the three divisions, who had the most points in the section was granted a title. However, it was the opinion of those who rang the shows that less than 25 points is not sufficient to provide adequate competition to earn a sectional title.

This year, the Siamese Seal Point, Lanita, owned by Mrs. June Williams of Temple City was the top ranking cat, with Michael of Beverly-Serrano, a Silver male the Best Opposite. The latter is owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Bunbury of Los Angeles, and was an All-American in 1948.

Lester O'Neill of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and representing the Midwest.

It is definitely established that a Siamese, for the first time, will not place with the title of Best Opposite Sex Cat of the Year, simply because none appear in the lineup.

For the first time an English import will be in the running for one of the two top feline titles. This entry is Doneraile Drusilla, who was imported from England by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson two years ago.

In 1947, the West won the title of Cat of the Year with Mr. Victor's Wimauma Masterpiece. Last year, the South captured the title with Mrs. Revington's Pearl Harbour Yank. However, in both instances, the cats were bred by Easterners. Masterpiece's breeder was Mrs. Mary Ohlin of Westerly, Rhode Island, and Yank's breeder was Mrs. Rebecca Janes of Hampton, New Hampshire.

Although the All-American cats must be conceded to be the outstanding show cats in competition during one entire exhibition season, based on a mathematical system applied to all shows staged regardless of affiliation, nevertheless there may be even greater cats living today. However these unlisted great cats failed to appear in sufficient competition or none at all to warrant consideration.

Many of the great All-Americans of the past have been retired from competition. Some are still campaigning. Pearl Harbour Yank, last year's stand-out was retired. Masterpiece, the 1947 choice appeared in one show, the California Cat Club exhibition at Los Angeles, and carried off Best Cat title, duplicating this feat in the Solid Color specialty event staged in conjunction with that show.

In rating and ranking the cats for the Sectional and All-American lists, it is pointed out that the work in-

by Billie Bancroft

Last January, down in Cat Cay, Bahamas, a common, garden variety of alley cat made history in one of the slickest, smoothest, racing Yawls that ever competed to win a long distance race. The yacht, Katuna, was off Fort Lauderdale and going at a spanking smart clip, when one of the crew noticed the heavy duty sales were moving—this seemed a bit spooky—so he investigated and found this sleek, black feline who in no way acted as if he were a stowaway in any manner. He blinked his green eyes and walked abaft and seated himself on a comfortable cushion in the stern, he peered into the blue water as the boat rushed through to hold a leading position in the long race. When the boat heeled—he moved to the high side, when the boat was hard alee helm, he seemed to know what hard down really was. His favorite position on warm sunny days was thwartships, (cross ways of the deck) from side to side. The Skipper and crew were cooking up all kinds of names for their mascot. Nothing was considered unless there was a nautical meaning. Black Buoy seemed to be running a close favorite, Centerboard was another suggestion, Cleat, Clinker, Dinghy were discarded because of the meaning—this was a Yacht—a dinghy is a small boat. Grommet was another suggestion, one of the crew was a yacht-builder and he seemed to have a monopoly on the gadgets named on a boat. Jib was another name but who ever heard of a black jib, Spars was suggested and rejected. The name Yawl was seriously considered and was running second to Black Buoy when the Skipper casually suggested Spinnaker—there was a howl of approval—everyone liked the name—so Spinnaker he was named—and he brought the Skipper and crew in as winners of this fifty-four nautical-mile event in sixteen hours, fifty-one minutes, twenty-eight seconds. There were no interviews and no pictures taken at Cat Cay—but on the return trip, Spinnaker and the Skipper hit the front pages of every paper in Florida and a few in New York—however this is the first inside dope that has ever been printed of how Spinnaker was named and of him being a stowaway. When I questioned the Skipper at the New York Yacht Club, I asked what he was going to do with Spinnaker, there was a twinkle in his eyes as he replied, "I luff that cat—!"

The other day there came a large square package, in it was a picture of that gorgeous Siamese, that very fancy feline, Cobina Wright III. I feel like taking a plane down to San Antonio, right away and looking over the new litter of Show prospects that have just arrived. The picture goes in my Tackroom along side of some very fine Judges and well known people in the Fancy. Thank you, Mrs. Marshall, you almost persuade me to go in for Siamese!

Nancy Ferguson told me last week over a luncheon table, that she has a story to top all stories—regarding pets—I told her I very much doubted it—but she still insists. You be the Judge. Nancy lives on East Eighty-First Street, New York. She was trying to think of something very special to give her husband on Father's Day. There was a chair in the living room, rather the worse for wear, he refused to have it removed or replaced but he did consent to have this chair covered. With instruction that he wanted a large patch-pocket on the right hand side for his magazines—and no one was to touch those magazines in that pocket—the chair went out to the upholsters. It came home looking very handsome indeed and there was a large patch pocket on the side. Jim Ferguson was delighted, it was just what he wanted—and now it pleased all the family too—for it was a truly beautiful piece of furniture. Jim gathered up his personal magazines, Time, Saturday Evening Post and a couple of dailies, after dinner he would go over them at his leisure. Nancy noticed that Hettie, their family adviser and friend, was very carefully scrutinizing the chair, she did not consider this very unusual because Hettie always examined everything new that came into the house. After dinner the Ferguson family had coffee on the patio and probably took longer than usual. The maid came out to Nancy and whispered something very very exciting to her—Nancy looked across at Jim, who was blandly watching the by-play. Nancy walked into the house—and doubled with hysterical laughter—for Hettie had used Jim's Patch-pocket, on his favorite easy chair as her maternity ward. (Hettie is short for heterogeneous.)

Amelia Roberts, a very sweet gal from Harrisburg, sent in the following story: Amelia has some very Royal Siamese, she sold one to a friend, who in turn trained the little beauty to a leash. While out for a stroll in the Rose Garden, an official Police car drew up—and stopped—the cop got out of the car and came over—(the girl was simply scared speechless—and wondered what she had done wrong)—'Lady,' the cops said, 'is that a Mink or maybe a Skunk—?' She Involved was stupendous. Approximately 1,600 cats were rated, the information obtained from carefully marked show catalogs. Two catalogs were late arriving for ranking of cats in two sections. This did effect the sectional rankings in several instances. However, these two shows were later rated and fortunately the changes did not upset the final All-American rankings.

NEW CLUB ORGANIZED IN HARRISBURG, PA.

A cat club known as the Susquehanna Cat Fanciers was formed at Harrisburg, Pa., June 22 in the Elks Hall. The organization has affiliated with CFF.

A basic element of the new club and included in the constitution is complete cooperation with National Cat Week, Inc., stressing the annual slogan of Appreciation, Understanding and Better Care (of cats).

President is Amelia Roberts of Harrisburg, with Tess B. Gantz, 101 Greenawalt's Lane, Harrisburg, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Paul K. Frank of Harrisburg is vice president. The board of directors include the officers as well as Mrs. Mary Clemments of Camp Hill, and Miss Hazel Gantz of Harrisburg.

Eighteen charter members were signed at the first meeting. Charter membership is $5.00 which includes an annual subscription to Cats Magazine. Among those attending the organizational meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Silas Andrews of East Meadow, N. Y., Mrs. Mabel Erdman of Lebanon, Pa., and Mrs. Max Fiedler of Media, Pa.

Date of the annual show of the Penn State Cat Club (CFF), have been changed to October 19-20, according to an announcement by Florence Leopold, show manager.

PAWS ACROSS "THE POND" REACH OUT TO YOU!

From England—The home of breeding—comes OUR CATS, the new monthly Magazine, which has been internationally accepted as a link of friendship and common interest between cat lovers of all types and ages. You will enjoy its 40 pages of first-class pictures and features. Your own Editor (Mr. Charles A. Kenny) writes: "I am indeed delighted and thrilled with the contents, the makeup and the general all-around brilliancy of this publication. England should be proud of OUR CATS, just as those of us in America are proud and happy for its arrival."

Subscription to OUR CATS may be sent to CATS MAGAZINE, Room 1204, House Building, 4 Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh 22, Pa. The post-free rate for 12 issues is $3.50 and when ordering it should be clearly indicated that the remittance is intended for the English magazine, OUR CATS.

THE FALLING CAT TURNS OVER

trouble, acquired while I was in the hospital, and has had a real siege. When I dropped her she landed on her side, which I firmly believe was due to the ear trouble. What do you think?"

The Misses Ruth and Ellen Carlson of West Chicago write: "We have long marveled at the perfect balance of our Manx cats and at their ease of movements unencumbered by a tail. The results of your requested test (and Glen Orry kitties thought we were playing a new game with them today and were much interested) are these: Out of twenty of our Manx tested, ranging from six weeks old to mature Champions twelve years old, males and females included, all without exception landed on their feet. The babies were dropped from about a foot above the cushion mat."

Now let us summarize: The bobtail cat can right itself and fall on its feet quite as well as the long-tailed cat. Out of forty tailless Manx cats and kittens of various ages which have been tested, all kittens but one landed on their feet in every test and that one did better than its two long-tailed siblings; and all adults but one landed on their feet. The adult that fell on her side was suffering from a bad ear trouble. Nothing could better prove that the health of the ear canals is of prime importance in making the landing. It is quite obvious that the tail has no part in helping a cat to right itself when falling, but that the scien-

Three clubs have affiliated with the Cat Fanciers' Association, according to an announcement following the quarterly board meeting of the CFA held in New York June 3. The groups are The All-Breed Club of New England, Mrs. Sven Nelson, 426 Elm St., Braintree, Mass., secretary; Mo-Kan Cat Club, Mrs. O. L. Wieber, 2949 Norton St., Kansas City, Mo., secretary; and the Siamese Breeders of the West, Mrs. Howard S. Stevens, 466 South Madison Ave., Pasadena 5, Calif., secretary.

New ratings for the Silver Society and the Tabby & Tortie shows are as follows: 20, 1 pt.; 25, 2 pts.; 30, 3 pts.; 35, 4 pts.

It was also announced the specialty clubs may have more than one show during the season, and that the limit regarding them is rescinded.

Mrs. J. F. Goforth of La Mesa, Calif., has been placed on the approved pending list of judges to officiate at specialty shows.

Cats Magazine correction (June '49): Minimum judges' fee for 125 entries is raised to $35 (thirty-five dollars) and not $25 as published.

The Twin City Cat Fanciers will hold an exhibition on January 7-8, 1950 at St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. C. F. Rotter judging.

tific version that the semicircular canals of the ear enable it to make the perfect landing has now been sustained with respect to all breeds of cats, tailed, bobtailed, and tailless.

Note: Mr. Teal was invited to append a defense of his aided-by-the-tail theory, but declined.

CAT TAILS

was convulsed with laughter—"Neither," she explained, "it is a Siamese Cat." The officers told her it was a very, very pretty cat but they were gosh-ganged surprised to see a cat on a leash.

Here is a bit of verse by Georgia Starbuck Galbraith. I wish I had written it. I think every breeder's husband will appreciate these lines:

My feline pet, you're beautiful,
But must you pull your yellow wool
Across my eyes and in my hair
By leaving it on every chair
And couch and consequently all
My clothes—? Oh, hirsute animal,
You stick to every stitch I own,
And while I brush and pluck and moan,
I often wish to heaven that
The Lord would make a blue serge cat!

First meeting of a newly organized cat club was held at Houston, Texas, July 19. Interested members are urged to contact Mrs. William T. Bell, 1105 Kinley Lane, Oak Forest, Houston 18, Texas.
